Walking the Trail

The Ibis Walking Trail officially starts in front of the Patti and Allan Herbert Wellness Center; however, you may start your tour at any point since the route is continuous. The main loop of the Ibis Trail follows Dickinson Drive past the BankUnited Center, home of the University’s men’s and women’s basketball programs. The BankUnited Center also hosts the annual commencement exercises, notable speakers, concerts, and family events.

At the end of the block you will reach Ponce de Leon Boulevard; continue to your right. The sidewalk path will take you past Mark Light Field at Alex Rodriguez Park. UMs field of dreams. Games are open to the public and tickets are available for a nominal fee. It’s a great way to spend a family afternoon.

As Sam Aniano Drive, just past the stadium, make a right and continue on what is also known as Hurricane Drive, named for UM’s 1983 National Champion football team. You will pass several fraternity houses and University Village on your left.

Continue on the sidewalk to Ponce de Leon Boulevard and turn right to continue on the main path. You must walk to turn left and add an additional loop to the trail around the open green space bordering Grandada Boulevard. Follow Ponce de Leon Boulevard all the way back to Dickinson Drive and turn right. At the end of the street, you will come to a traffic circle. In front of you is the School of Architecture, which includes the Jorge M. Perez Architecture Center. The sidewalk path takes you back to the Herbert Wellness Center, a hub of fitness and wellness activities for students, faculty, and staff.

Many of its programs are open to the community. For more information, visit umiami.edu/wellness. We hope you enjoy your self-guided campus tour and that you will return many times to enjoy all that the University has to offer.

Campus Highlights

Green Spaces
Community residents are welcome to use the University’s 230 acres of open green space. Please keep in mind that pets must be kept on a leash at all times and owners must clean up after their pets. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

Sculptures on Campus
The University’s sculpture garden features pieces by noted artists at several focal points around campus. Thanks to the generosity of many donors, the University’s diverse collection of outdoor art works continues to grow. For details about the sculptures or to learn more about the arts at UM, visit miami.edu/artscape.

Butterfly Garden
Located along the Ibis Walking Trail behind Eaton Residential College, the Butterfly Garden is a living laboratory. The garden is home to over 200 different varieties of plants and attract butterflies such as the monarch, swallow, and brush foot, as well as the azebra longwing, Florida’s state butterfly.

Florida Keys Arboretum
This arborescent highlight is located on the shores of Lake Okeechobee, the arboretum is located in front of the Herbert Wellness Center: a hub of fitness and wellness activities for students, faculty, and staff.

Florida Keys Arboretum
Planted in 1947, the Gifford Arboretum is a collection of tropical and subtropical trees run by the Department of Biology and the Friends of the Gifford Arboretum.

Walk On!
Regular cardiovascular exercise such as walking or running can help improve circulation, tone muscles, and facilitate weight loss. Whether you’re walking or running, the Ibis Trail is a great place to exercise. Here are some tips from fitness experts at the University’s Herbert Wellness Center:

- Find a path and sidewalks whenever available. If you must be on or near a road, remember to walk or run facing oncoming traffic.
- Warm up and stretch before and after your workout.
- Drink plenty of water before, during, and after exercise.
- Wear bright colors and/or reflective shoes so you can easily be seen by drivers.
- Don’t forget a hat, sunglasses, and sunscreen!
- Walk with a companion. If you walk alone, make sure you tell someone your route and when you are leaving.
- Carry identification but leave your valuables at home.
- Should you have an emergency, blue-light safety phones are located throughout campus.

Always check with your physician before beginning a new fitness routine.
