RED GROOMS: SELECTIONS FROM THE GRAPHIC WORK

University of Miami’s Lowe Art Museum will host a stunning exhibition of more than 100 works covering forty years of printmaking by one of the best-known American artists working today. Red Grooms: Selections from the Graphic Work will be on view from November 22, 2003 - January 18, 2004. Red Grooms, who grew up in Nashville, migrated first to Chicago and then to New York seeking the excitement of big city culture. For years he has mined the vitality of the often portraying real people whose lives are stranger than fiction. He is probably the only artist whose works have managed to successfully bridge the gap between modernism and post-modernism - he has been a 1950s beat era/performa artist, a knowing commentator on popular culture, and a reverential re-inventor of the history of art. UM’s DIABETES RESEARCH INSTITUTE RECEIVES $50 MILLION

The Diabetes Research Institute, an academic center of excellence at the University of Miami School of Medicine, has received a $50 million gift from the Diabetes Research Institute Foundation. The money will be used to accelerate DRI’s pioneering work in islet cell transplantation, a groundbreaking procedure that is considered the most promising method for curing diabetes. A number of patients who have received islet transplants at the DRI are now living insulin free for the first time since being diagnosed with type 1 diabetes. (more)
